

As I was growing up on the Fort Wayne campus and at my parents' church, Fellowship Bible Church, in the 70s and early 80s, we would have Fort Wayne Bible College Gospel Teams come to sing during a service. Additionally, we would have Sharon & Robin visit. Who could forget Sharon (Brumbaugh) Hoffman's g77 ability to sing and Robin's ability to make those ivories play? Then there was Tom Nevil g79, who sang and entertained through puppets, seemingly a lost art today.

Oh, what memories of these college students dressing alike in the latest fashions, and, more importantly, their ability to sing, harmonize and praise while representing the college.

Now, as a parent of five children, my kids are now involved in music performances and musicals. Music plays an important part in all of our lives, and it is amazing how one song or one melody can stir memories and emotions.

Last year, the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center with a team consisting of Dr. Jay Platte g69, Dr. Paul Robbins g60, Marsha (Ringenberg) Wright g70, the Rev. Jim Johnson g50, the Rev. Dave Binkley g81, Dr. Dave Biberstein g66, Dr. Bill Hossler, president of the Missionary Church, and I began putting together a Seniors' Extravaganza that included an oldfashion Singspiration and Music and Memories at First Missionary Church.

Based on its success and the response, we held a similar event again this fall, but added some events for younger alumni and held it in the Eicher Student Commons. Fort Wayne Celebrates! was an incredible event. Hearing this group sing along with smaller quartets and ensembles was an encouragement to the more than 250+ alumni and friends in attendance.

Music is powerful! This issue of the FW Vine will explore its history here on the Fort Wayne campus and its impact then and even now in the world through our alumni.

Rejoicing for the memories,

Michael D. Mortensen g91

Director of Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends

P.S. Hope you will put September 28 & 29, 2012 on your calendar, as we plan to celebrate again our heritage and legacy by reconnecting, reminiscing, replaying and rejoicing!

MUSIC TOUCHES CAMPUS, COMMUNITY, AND CONTINENTS

By Michael D. Mortensen g91 and Dr. Jay Platte g69

The music program at the Fort Wayne campus touched the lives of thousands on and off campus for close to 100 years.

From its humble beginning when Mrs. J.E. Ramseyer, wife of founder and president, taught voice and piano in 1904 to 1906, it grew in prominence training directors, teachers, and artists that spread the Good News around the world.

In 1911, C.A. Gerber, the first of many prominent faculty members joined and led the program for 35 years. He was followed by Oliver Steiner g26, Rene Frank, Ira Gerig h80, and Jay Platte g69. Several others contributed and taught through the program.

Originally, the music program was housed in Schultz Hall, but in 1942 Founders Memorial Hall was built as a new music building and significantly increased classrooms, studios and practice rooms and performance spaces for the Music Department.

In the mid-1950s the department became the School of Music and added degrees in Bachelor of Music Education and Bachelor of Arts to complement the Bachelor of Sacred Music degree. That was an outgrowth of the three-year program prior to the name change to Fort Wayne Bible College and the offering of four year degrees.

With this restructuring, the Music faculty dramatically increased to include faculty Betty Stanley, Richard Gerig (composer of the Alma Mater), John F. Wilson, June (Swaback) Harrison g49, Margurite (Steiner) Habeggerg31, Richard Elmer and John Bechtelheimer. Marlene (Langosch) Schleiffer g59 and Marilyn Andersen joined the music faculty. It was a time of enrollment expansion both for the college and the department. Under Langosch's initiative instrumental music developed into a touring Concert Band and Brass Ensemble.

Around this time, Joy Gerig g51, who had become the first full-time Christian Service Director in 1960, refined Gospel teams, which continued to be coached by music faculty, and began to multiply and diversify, through the Christian Service Office.

Perhaps two of the most prominent and traveled groups were the Crusaders' Quartet that included Paul Brennan g60, Ken Mays g60, Paul Robbins g60, T.A. Strader g60 and Ed Terui g60, and the Singing Collegians, initiated by Robbins and Joy Gerig, founded in 1965, and directed by Jay Platte. While these groups were not under the Music Department, they did much to draw students to the college to build programs.

In the early 1970s in response to increasing community demand for music instruction, Class Piano for Children was founded with Jacquilyn Loomis as the first class piano instructor. Growing and diversifying, it was later renamed The Community School of Arts. In its most successful days, the Performance Contest hosted almost 500 students.

During this time, Marlene Everson came on board as a voice instructor. In 1981, Dana Collins joined the music faculty to teach instrumental music, theory and composition. The instrumental program continued to develop, continuing the Concert Band tradition that Dr. James Loomis started of Pops 'n Pizza which enjoyed great success over a number of years.

The Music Department, after serving the campus, community, and continents for decades, was brought to a close in 1992. Attempts were made to later revive it, but were only temporarily successful; however, it's legacy and impact continues today in and through the lives of those it touched, who continue to sing, play, and compose all for the glory of God.

Editor's Note: This article only skims the rich history of the music program. Volunteers are working on a more complete and extensive history. If you would like to assist with this project, please email fwarchives@taylor.edu, and Dr. Jay Platte will provide more details.

PLATTE SPREADS LIGHT AND LOVE THROUGH MUSIC IN EASTERN EUROPE

By Shirley (Mertz) Platte g69

Light has amazing quality. A single candle, insignificant in a well-lighted room, can glow with warmth and power in the darkest of places.

Still having a passion for teaching children through music after a rewarding career in music education in 2008, I was delighted to learn about Music Camp International, a non-profit children's charity whose mission is to bring the gift of music to children in post-Soviet countries.

Under the visionary leadership of Connie Fortunato, its founder and director, this organization has been working in both Romania and Ukraine since 2002, and so has gained the trust of government and education ministry officials. The government has even allowed access to the precious children in orphanages, schools for the blind and in government-supported camps for children in the social system.

In a typical music camp, the children are given the opportunity to play instruments such as guitar, recorder, Orff ensemble, choir chimes, handbells, violin and cello. They also sing in a choir, learning carefully chosen sacred classics and songs of inspiration and hope.

The teaching staff uses encouragement, positive reinforcement, and techniques that involve the child in music making in our instrument classes. This is in sharp contrast with the critical approach they often experience in schools, and many teachers have been surprised that we can achieve good results with our gentler, more patient methods.

Their five-day camp is culminated in a community concert, accompanied by a professional orchestra, giving the children an unforgettable thrill. The dignity, self-esteem and joy the children experience shines in the smiles on their faces.

In the past three years I have made nine trips to Eastern Europe, the most recent one being a six-week experience that included three separate projects: a Music Camp in Bucharest, Romania, with over 500 children; a Music Camp in Iasi, Romania, with over 500 children; and a collaborative project with the Ukrainian government to take 45 children to Strasbourg, France, to sing for the Parliamentary Session of the Council of Europe.

Final concert of Music Camp International in Lasi, Romania on September 9, 2011

Each time I go, I see how the minds and hearts of both children and adults are opened, softened, and permanently changed by our sharing of love, hope, and the gift of music.

I can't fully express my gratitude and joy for the privilege of using the gifts and talents God has given me, even in my retirement years, to bring a small candle of His love to children, teens and adults who are so receptive to its transforming power.

Editor's Note: Shirley (Mertz) Platte g69 has been active in the field of music education since graduation. After more than 27 years in elementary school music and serving as organist in several churches, she has pursued opportunities to continue her passion for sharing her love of music with children. She also currently serves as organist at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, Fort Wayne. She is married to Jay Platte g69, and has two married sons and six grandchildren

FORT WAYNE CELEBRATES!

SEPTEMBER 23 & 24, 2012

The Eicher Student Commons was filled with Fort Wayne alumni and friends September 23 & 24 for Fort Wayne Celebrates! 2011. Alumni reconnected, reminisced, replayed and rejoiced while being inspired, challenged and encouraged through song, Godly teaching and fellowshiping together around the dinner table and the soccer field. Alumni and friends gathering from 16 states and three countries returned to campus beginning Friday afternoon through Saturday evening.

CONNECTING THROUGH FORT WAYNE WEB

By Michael D. Mortensen g91

The Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center website is designed to care for Fort Wayne campus alumni and to celebrate their heritage and legacy.

The first section, “Engage,” features a timeline with photos of the school’s history and a searchable online archive vault including pictures, audio clips, videos and documents dating as far back as 1885.

The second section, “Connection,” encourages alumni to connect with fellow alumni through our FW Alumni & Friends Resource Center page on Facebook. By simply clicking on the Facebook picture, you are taken to the Fort Wayne Resource Center page, where updates are generally given daily with pictures, memories and questions.

Contests, questions and photos often generate responses from alumni of all ages and locations across the country. In September, several celebrated “Roommate Appreciation Day” virtually by leaving messages about their roommate(s). In other cases, they posted pictures, which generated many “likes” and some laughs.

Since August 2010, 609 have “liked” the FW Alumni & Friends Resource Center page. Are you one of them?

The second feature of “Connection” includes “Stories of Fort Wayne” alumni. Here you are encouraged to submit stories of how students, faculty or staff affected your world and your walk. Perhaps, you can recall a time in your life when you were struggling. This is the place where you can pay tribute to another student, roommate, faculty or staff member who made a difference.

These stories can encourage and bless, even years after they take place.

Editor’s Note: In the next issue of the FW Vine, we will showcase another section of the <http://fw.taylor.edu> website. Alumni and Friends are encouraged to visit this site and provide feedback and suggestions at alumnifw@taylor.edu.

FORMER FWBC PRESIDENT MARRIES FORMER CLASSMATE

By Stephanie Warner g13

Former Fort Wayne Bible College President Dr. Timothy Warner g50 and Eileen Lageer g49 first met at Taylor University in the late 1940s where Eileen was the star of the undefeated women's basketball team, and Tim played tennis.

They sang together in A Cappella Choir, but after graduating magna cum laude, both went their own ways, keeping in touch only through prayer letters.

Dr. Warner married Eleanor Neuschwander in 1955. Together they went to Sierra Leon, West Africa as missionaries. Later he served in multiple roles culminating as President at FWBC, Director of the School of World Missions and Evangelism at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, and International Director for Freedom in Christ Ministries.

Meanwhile, Eileen went to Nigeria for 24 years, and upon returning earned her Masters of Art degree from Grace Theological Seminary. She also wrote two commissioned books about the history of the Missionary Church.

Research for her writing brought her to Fort Wayne, Ind. where she reconnected with Tim and his family. Later she returned to her home in Canada as the head of the Missions Department at Emmanuel Bible School. When Eileen heard of Eleanor's passing in 2010, she wrote Warner a sympathy card, which led to their reunion and subsequent marriage.

Eileen, 87, and Tim, 86, wed in Kitchener, Ontario, on July 16, celebrating Eileen's first marriage. Tim walked his former Taylor friend down the aisle. Eileen displayed her spunk with a wink at the congregation after their first kiss. She later related her marriage to the miracle of when Jesus saved the best wine for last.

Editor's Note: Stephanie Warner g13 is Dr. Warner's granddaughter, who is studying Professional Writing at Taylor University.

Providence Hall collectable available

Providence Hall, affectionately called the “Cardboard Castle” was built as a “temporary” residence hall to house 70 female students in 1945 for $25,664.68. Finally, after 25 years of service, it finally succumbed to old age in 1970.

Memories of this special hall, where residents were known to be able “to pass notes through the walls” was originally built as an Army barracks, but rebuilt behind Schultz and Bethany Halls.

At Fort Wayne Celebrates! the Resource Center unveiled the latest Cat’s Meow wooden replica that can sit above a door, on a table, mantel or desk. Replicas are $10 and are available at <http://fw.taylor.edu/store> or by calling the Resource Center at (260)744-8790.

Now he serves as a Pit Pastor with Maggie and an announcer, a recent opening God provided. Together, they minister in the middle of a field on weekends to people zero to 50. For more information, visit www.traxideoutreach.com or email rich@traxide.com.

The Troyers will live and work in Florida this winter while raising support for next season.

WHAT PART WILL YOU PLAY?

This issue of the FW Vine spotlights our music program – which touched the campus, community and continents for nearly 100 years. Each, band, choir or group had leaders or featured performers at times, but the entire production was better because the group worked together.

In every performance, each participant has his or her part. Some play or sing the melody, while others provide harmony. Even the actors need the stage hands, who lift the curtains or move the props for the show to be a success.

Much the same, we rely on each alumnus(a) to reach our financial goal of $60,000 each fiscal year for the Fort Wayne Alumni Fund. Last year, the largest gift we received was $3,000 and the smallest was one penny. All gifts, like all musical notes, make a difference!

Just like in the past, we need everyone to participate at some level for the continuation of the Fort Wayne Alumni & Friends Resource Center. Will you please consider playing some role in helping us with a gift before December 31? While all gifts are received by Taylor University (so you may qualify for the Indiana State tax credit if a resident), all funds come to us for the programs, events, services and resources we provide Fort Wayne campus alumni.
